

1966

Variety name means "Old Castile". This strain is representative of the northcentral part of Spain and is grown under dry farming with clay soils fairly high in lime. The rainfall is around 15 inches, which means conditions somewhat like southern Montana. (For more information, see enclosures to letter from Oakes 12/16/65 in information on accession file.)

908570