

CHINESE JUJUBE TREES OF THE TANG OR SUGAR VARIETY (ZIPHUS JUJUBA MILLER). (S. P. I. No. 35256.)

In the hard-baked dooryard soil which is packed by the tread of many feet, the Chinese jujube seems to thrive. This variety is a rare one, even in the Shantung Province, and its fruits are large and much elongated. Photograph (P5826FS), taken by Frank N. Meyer, at Laoling, China, March 31, 1913.
