

An Old Chinese Elm in the Lama Temple Yard, Peking.

The Chinese Elm (Ulmus pumila) has proven to be perfectly hardy in the North West and is attracting considerable attention because of its rapid growth and attractive appearance. It cannot compare with the American elm as an avenue tree but has a picturesqueness about it which will make it a useful tree for dooryards and parks. Photo No. 5103, by F. N. Meyer, Peking, China, Dec. 25, 1905.
