

A CHINESE FRUIT STAND, LOADED WITH CHOICE FRUITS.

It is at such fruit stands as this that Mr. Meyer gets positive information of the existence of valuable varieties of Chinese fruits which he is later able to get budwood of for introduction into this country. Note the beautiful Tamopan persimmons at the right and the fine Chinese pears in the foreground. Photo No. 5959 by F. N. Meyer, taken Oct. 18, 1913 at Peking, China.
