

The Quetta Nectarine(S.P.I. No.18235).

The seeds were collected from the best nectarine trees in Quetta, Baluchistan, at an altitude of 6000 feet by Lieutenant W. L. Maxwell of the 127th Baluchistan Light Infantry. The large size and good color of this variety together with its excellent flavor make it very promising. Photographed at Chico, Calif., by R. L. Beagles from the first fruits to ripen in this country.
