

During the war, the experts for the Council for National Defence found the hard shells of the macauba nuts very satisfactory in the production of charcoal for use in gas masks. Seeds of A. sclerocarpa have been introduced into the United States several times by this Office; the last shipment was from Lavras, Minas, Brazil, in 1914, under S. P. I. No. 37382.