20037. BRASSICA PE-TSAI.

Pe-tsai cabbage.

From Antung, Manchuria. "(No. 278a, June 12, 1906.) A variety of the Chinese summer cabbage, said to grow very large on moist, rich soils; does not stand great drought or heat. Can be bleached by tying the leaves together." (Meyer.)

20038. BRASSICA PE-TSAI.

Pe-tsai cabbage.

From Antung, Manchuria. "(No. 279a, July 12, 1906.) Chinese name Pai tsay. These seeds came from a different grower, but in all probability are the same as No. 278a (S. P. I. No. 20037)." (Meyer.)

20039. BRASSICA PE-TSAI.

Pe-tsai cabbage.

From Shan-hai-kwan, China. "(No. 280a, Apr. 28, 1906.) Chinese name Pai tsay. A good winter cabbage, said to grow on dry ground." (Meyer.)

20040. CUCUMIS MELO.

Muskmelon.

From Antung, Manchuria. "(No. 290a, July 10, 1906.) A small, green melon. These fruits are eaten like apples by the Chinese and Koreans and are not bad. They may be of use to us as preserves or, when somewhat improved, as a table fruit. Require apparently less heat to ripen than ordinary muskmelons do." (Meyer.)

20041. CUCUMIS MELO.

Muskmelon.

From Antung, Manchuria. "(No. 291a, July 10, 1906.) A small, white melon. For description see No. 290a (S. P. I. No. 20040)." (Meyer.)

20042. CUCUMIS MELO.

Muskmelon.

From Tcho-san, northern Korea. "(No. 292a, Aug. 4, 1906.) A small, green melon. For description see No. 290a (S. P. I. No. 20040)." (Meyer.)

20043. CUCUMIS MELO.

Muskmelon.

From Pyok-tong, northern Korea. "(No. 293a, July 24, 1906.) A small, green melon. For description see No. 290a (S. P. I. No. 20040)." (Meyer.)

20044. CUCUMIS MELO.

Muskmelon.

From Kang-ko, northern Korea. "(No. 294a, Aug. 8, 1906.) A somewhat larger variety than No. 290a (S. P. I. No. 20040); otherwise the same description applies to it." (Meyer.)

20045. CUCUMIS MELO.

Muskmelon.

From Newchwang, Manchuria. "(No. 295a, May 19, 1906.) Melon seeds obtained from Rev. J. Carson, of Newchwang, who procured them from a party from Australia. Said to be good for jam." (Meyer.)

20046. BRASSICA PE-TSAI.

Pe-tsai cabbage.

From Liaoyang, Manchuria. (No. 298a, June 4, 1906.)

20047. BRASSICA JUNCEA.

Chinese mustard.

From Liaoyang, Manchuria. "(No. 299a, June 4, 1906.) Chinese name Tje chwa. The leaves and lower stalks are eaten either fresh or pickled." (Meyer.)

20048. LACTUCA SATIVA.

Lettuce.

From Liaoyang, Manchuria. "(No. 300a, June 4, 1906.) Chinese name Sun tsay. Probably not to be compared with our lettuce, but may be useful in breeding." (Meyer.)
